Situated atop a hill with commanding views, the Clarens estate offers a rare opportunity to own a part of history. The original structure was built between 1814 and 1816. During the 1850's the reputed first graduate of Episcopal High School, the Reverend George Smith, operated "The Fairfax School" from the property. Two notable attendees were George Washington Custis Lee (Robert E. Lee's son) and George M. Dallas (the eleventh Vice President of the United States). During the Civil War, Union troops constructed a fort and Clarens served as its hospital. After the war, James Murray Mason, grandson of George Mason and former United States Senator from Virginia, retired to Clarens. During Mason's residence at the estate he was visited by Confederate President Jefferson Davis and Confederate General Robert E. Lee. After Mason's death, Clarens became a school for girls before resuming its role as an elegant private home. The stately Nineteenth Century Federal-Style mansion include...

- Separate Pool House
- Vintage Guest Cottage
- Potting/Art Studio
- 3.5 Acres of Lush Grounds
- Fruit Orchards and Walled Gardens
- Curved Drive
