When they say they don't build them like they use to, they meant the craftsmanship. This home is a prime example. As one of the properties featured in The Images of America Maple Shade edition, this home built at the turn of the century was photographed and used as a post card published by Pettit's Drug Store in 1915. Built by John L. Owens of the Owens & Stiles Construction Co. for Clifford Rapp, this exercise in craftsmanship with its inlaid hardwood floors is a prime example of the pride taken in ones workmanship in the early 1900's . Although it may be showing its age in some ways for thoes who love old homes this home has the potential to be a showcase in clasic style. Priced at $169,999 should make this even more appealing.Call Jerry for more information 856-220-6325
