Historic Upper East ... Timeless Elegance ... Gracious Living

Known as "The Palmer Cottage", this landmark Upper East home exudes the grace and warmth of its refined Colonial Revival style. Designed by the renowned Santa Barbara architectural firm of Soule, Hastings and Murphy for Mary Palmer in 1929, this home exhibits the aura of a New England cottage with grand Georgian details. Additionally, its design gives a nod to Santa Barbara's temperate climate and Spanish heritage by situating the home around a central, outdoor courtyard reminiscent of a traditional hacienda.

Built by Alexander MacKellar, a fine craftsman from Glasgow, Scotland, The Palmer Cottage's stately presence at the top of one of Santa Bar...
