You are going to love the one level brick home on a half acre home site in the golf course community of Elizabeth Manor. From the street you will notice a large front yard and tremendous driveway for plenty of off street parking. The front door has a storm door for insulation or to let extra sunshine in the home.

You enter into the formal living room with hardwood floors a real wood burning fireplace and large picture window. It is open to the dining room also with wood floors and stained trim. The dining room has good wall space for a china hutch and cabinet.

Past the dining room is the comfortable sun room which is where you will want to spend all your time. It is surrounded by insulated windows which make this space light and bright and has a great view of the back yard. It is large enough for over sized furniture and even a table for family games and entertaining.

The kitchen is to the right of the dining room and wait...
